

Stefano POLETTI

Profile :

- The artist and designer Stefano Poletti has worked with some of the greatest fashion designers.
- This talented jewellery designer enjoys an impressive international reputation.
- For Daum, he has designed "Finferlo", a natural vase inspired by a chanterelle.

Biography (1958)

Born in Milan in 1958. Stefano, an artist designer, graduated from business school then turned towards fashion. He is also a graduate of the Marangoni School of Stylism in Milan, and studied at the Berçot School. He has worked with many couturiers such as Yves Saint Laurent, Thierry Mugler, Christian Lacroix and Montana...He has created jewelry for Balmain, Givenchy, Nina Ricci, Yves Saint Laurent and Ungaro. His work earned him a mention in the International Dictionary of Jewelry (Editions du Regard – 1998)

Stefano Poletti for Daum

While working with Daum, Stefano admits that he let himself be influenced by... Daum. Captivated by the tradition, amazed by the textures and colours, he conceived Finferlo, an eminently organic vase inspired by the chanterelle mushroom. It is well-known that mushrooms change colour according to the weather. An ideal argument for using Daum's pastel palettes, ranging from shades of orange to soft greens. The "skin" of this chanterelle is engraved, and its tapered edges carefully polished to render the natural fragility of these forest dwellers, which arouse such enthusiasm among mushroom hunters. Do they belong to the vegetable or animal world? Whichever, they are part of nature. "Daum corresponds with my world on several points", says Stefano. "Furthermore, the story of paste of crystal and jewellery is just beginning, despite its origins dating back a few millennia back".

Finferlo

Edited in 125 copies

Height : 9 in

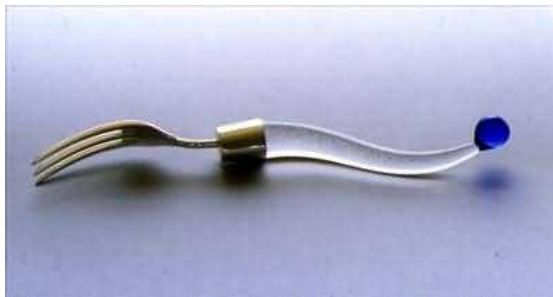

The world of Stefano Poletti

Lampe Berger

Pendantif

Fork
Glass